Training Workshop on "Synthetic Panels" and "Equality of Opportunities"

May 7th, 2013

09:00-10:45 Session I: Synthetic Panels

This session will cover the theoretical underpinnings of the Dang, Lanjouw, Luoto and McKenzie (2011) method to convert two or more rounds of cross-sectional data into a synthetic panel and an illustration for selected Latin American countries. This session will be delivered by Peter Lanjouw (London School of Economics, World Bank) and Leonardo Lucchetti (Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, World Bank).

10:45-11:15 Closing Cocktail

11:15-13:00 Session II: Equality of Opportunities

This session will cover two particular extensions of the Human Opportunity Index (HOI). The first combines data on public spending with the HOI to compute the so called "opportunities Benefit Incidence Analysis" and the second will be on the progress that has been made and the limitation of using this for analysis of inequality in labor market outcomes. This session will be delivered by Maria Ana Lugo (University of Oxford, World Bank) and Sailesh Tiwari (Brown University, World Bank).
